2012 SUMMARY

Responsibility for registering recreational boats in the U.S. falls onto the individual states, which report registration data to the U.S. Coast Guard annually. The 2012 U.S. Recreational Boat Registrations Statistics report is compiled from this data. Other sources used in this report include the U.S. Census Bureau, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Info-Link Technologies Inc., and Statistical Surveys, Inc.

Boat registrations statistics are the basis for allocating the Aquatic Resources Trust Fund dollars among the states each year. In addition, NMMA uses the registration data to develop its estimates on the size of the recreational boating fleet in the U.S. This information is available in NMMA's Recreational Boating Statistical Abstract.

Overview

Total registrations decreased 0.6 percent; 71,999 fewer boats were registered in 2012 than were registered in 2011.

195,800 new model year powerboats were sold and registered in the U.S. in 2012, indicating that 268,006 powerboats or 2.6 percent of the fleet were removed from powerboat registration rolls (both states and territories).

There were 189,421 documented vessels in the U.S. in 2012; of these 89,198 were also state registered. Therefore, there are 12.2 million recreational boats that are either registered by the states/territories or documented by the USCG.

The top ten states were: 1.) Florida 870,031; 2.) Minnesota 817,996; 3.) Michigan 804,088; 4.) California 776,584; 5.) Wisconsin 622,563; 6.) Texas 580,064; 7.) New York 463,539; 8.) South Carolina 460,564; 9.) Ohio 441,732; 10.) North Carolina 391,711

Registrations declined in all segments in 2012, except 26 feet to less than 40 feet segment which was up 9.5 percent, and the metal (aluminum) segment which increased 0.3 percent.

95 percent of mechanically propelled boats registered were less than 26 feet in length; more than half were between 16 and 26 feet in length.

Nearly six of 10 of mechanically propelled boats registered had fiberglass hulls.

Two-thirds of mechanically propelled boats were outboard boats.

Ordering Information

NMMA's Industry Statistics and Research Department offers the summary and state profiles of recreational boat registrations by boat segment, size, power, and hull material. Regional summaries include population/income estimates and shoreline/inland water data. The report is available only in Adobe Acrobat format. The 2012 registration report is free for members and $600 for non-members. Contact the Fulfillment Department in Chicago, 312.946.6200, to place an order.

Boat Registration Totals & Percent Changes

REGIONAL SUMMARY 2012 vs. 2011

The Inland region posted the largest increase in registrations for 2012, up 1.8% compared to the previous year.

The Great Lakes region again ranked first, accounting for more than a quarter (27%) of registered boats in 2012.

*Shared bodies of water were the determining factor used to develop regions.

REGIONAL SUMMARIES

2012 Recreational Boat Registrations Regional Summaries, Population & Income Estimates

The Great Lakes region again ranked first in boat registrations, accounting for 27% of the total, followed by the Inland region with a 19% share of boat registrations.

The Inland region posted the largest increase in registrations in 2012, up 1.8% compared to the previous year. The largest decline in boat registrations occurred in the Pacific region; compared to 2011, registrations decreased 6.4% during 2012.

The Great Lakes region again had the highest concentration of boats vis-à-vis the population—one boat for every 16 persons. The national average is one boat for every 26 persons. The North Atlantic and Pacific regions had the lowest concentration of boats vis-à-vis the population—one boat for every 38 and 41 persons, respectively.

COMMENTS: Total registrations declined 2.2%; registrations fell in all categories with sterndrive boats posting the largest drop (5.3%). Florida ranked number one for all boats, total powerboats, and outboard boat registrations. Florida requires state registration for documented vessels; nearly three-fourths of Florida's documented vessels were also registered by the state.

COMMENTS: Minnesota moved up one place to replace California in the number two spot for 2012; total registrations increased 1.1% led by "other" boats (up 3.5% for the year). New powerboat sales increased 17% in 2012 compared to 2011, led by inboard boats (up 31%), outboard boats (up 19%) and PWCs (up 15%). Sterndrive boat sales were relatively flat, down 1% in 2012. Minnesota does not require state registration for documented vessels; however 16% of the state's recreational boats were both registered by the state and documented with the USCG.

COMMENTS: Michigan moved up one place to rank third in total registrations in 2012, although registrations were relatively flat, up just 0.1%, for the year. It ranked second in powerboat registrations. Michigan again ranked first for inboard boat registrations and second for outboard boat registrations. New powerboat sales were up 20% in 2012 compared to the previous year, with double-digit increases in all four power categories. Michigan requires state registration for all documented vessels; 68% of Michigan's documented vessels were also registered by the state.

COMMENTS: Ohio ranked ninth in total boat registrations and eleventh in total powerboat registrations. Total registrations increased 2.1% compared to the previous year lead by the "other" boat category, which increased 8.1%. While Ohio requires state registration of all documented vessels, only 31% of Ohio's documented vessels were also registered by the state.

Rank #10: North Carolina (Powerboat Rank #9)

In developing fleet numbers, industry experts assume a 50% attrition rate for boats older than 25 years, i.e., half of the boats older than 25 years are removed from the fleet. NMMA's estimate of "real" change in state registrations reflects new boat sales and boats retired from the fleet. A positive number indicates more boats were added to the state's registration than were retired. A negative number indicates the number of boats retired exceeded the number of new boats added. During 2012, 291,916 powerboats (2%) were "retired" from the recreational boating fleet.

DOCUMENTED & REGISTERED VESSELS

189,421 recreational boats were documented by the USCG in 2012, down 1.2% from the prior year. 35 states and the District of Columbia required state registration of USCG documented vessels in 2012.

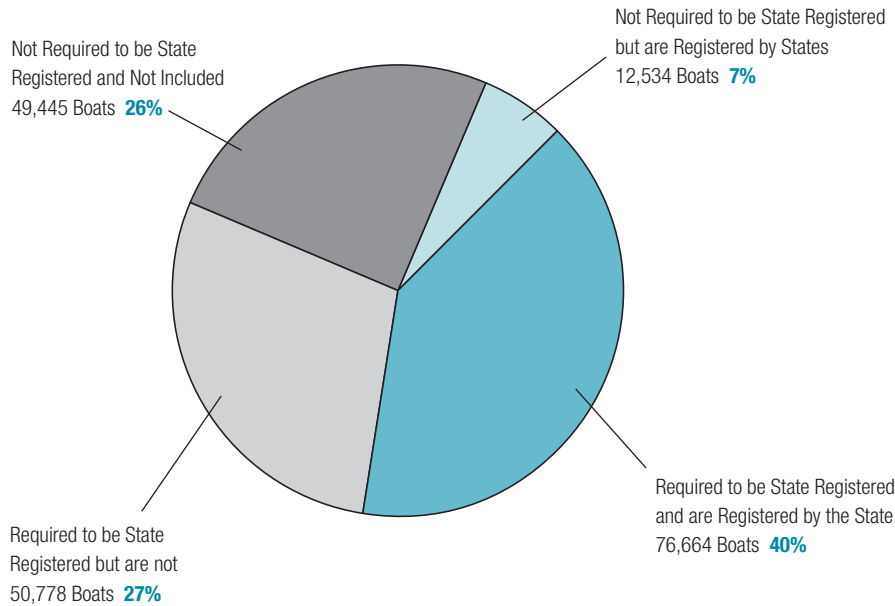

27% of the boats (50,778) that should have been state registered were not. In addition, 7% of the documented boats in states that do not require state registration were registered by the state (12,534). Thus, 89,198 documented boats were included in the state registration numbers and 100,223 were on file only with the USCG.

U.S. SUMMARY AND STATE PROFILES

U.S. SUMMARY

Total boat registrations declined 0.6%; registrations of mechanically propelled boats decreased 0.9% in 2012 compared to the previous year.

Decreases in registrations were noted in all categories in 2012, except the 26-foot to less than 40-foot segment which increased 9.5% and the metal segment which increased 0.3%.

95% of mechanically propelled boats registered were less than 26 feet in length and more than half were 16 feet to less than 26 feet long.

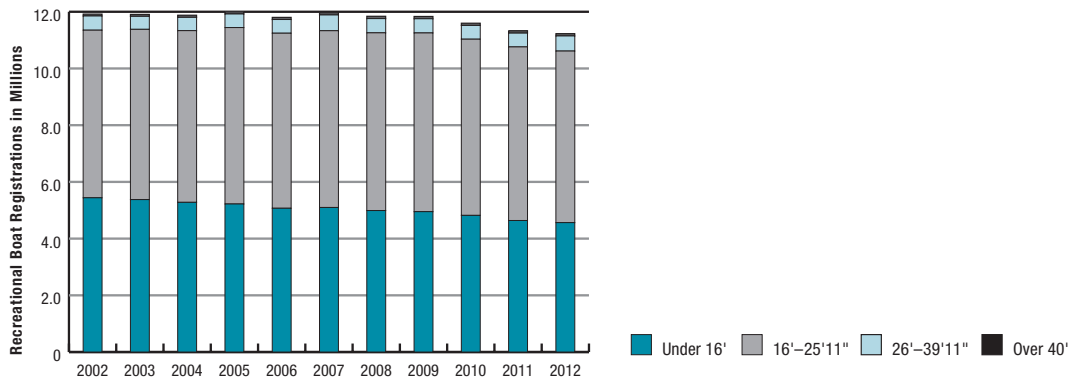

Nearly six of 10 registered mechanically propelled boats were constructed of fiberglass.

Nearly two-thirds of registered mechanically propelled boats were outboards.

2012 MISSISSIPPI

Total boat registrations in Mississippi declined 14.8% in 2012 compared to 2011, most likely reflecting the results of the BP oil spill in 2010. Mississippi has a three-year registration period; therefore about three of 10 boats registered in 2009 were not renewed in 2012. Nationally, Mississippi ranked No. 29 in registrations, one position lower than the previous year.

2,991 new model year powerboats were sold and registered in Mississippi, indicating that 26,045 powerboats (19.6%) registered in 2011 were removed from the state's registration roll in 2012. Mississippi does not register personal watercraft as a separate category.

Mississippi does not require state registration of USCG documented recreational vessels.

2012 NORTH DAKOTA

Total boat registrations in North Dakota increased 32.1% in 2012, reversing the double-digit decline that occurred in 2011. The jump was led by increased registrations of fiberglass inboard boats smaller than 16 feet; these may be misclassified and are, in truth, personal watercraft. Nationally, North Dakota ranked No. 39 in registrations in 2012, up three positions from 2011.

1,990 new model year powerboats were sold and registered in North Dakota, indicating that 13,087 powerboats (21.2%) not registered in 2011 were added to the state's registration roll in 2012.

North Dakota requires state registration of USCG documented recreational vessels.

2012 TEXAS

Total boat registrations in Texas increased 0.5% in 2012 compared to 2011. Nationally, Texas ranked No. 6 in registrations for the eighth consecutive year.

17,969 new model year powerboats were sold and registered in Texas, indicating that 15,221 powerboats (2.7%) registered in 2011 were removed from the state's registration roll in 2012.

NMMA questions whether the 48,818 registered fiberglass inboard boats smaller than 16' includes PWCs, despite the fact that PWCs are reported separately. Texas does not register auxiliary sailboats separately.

Texas requires state registration of USCG documented recreational vessels.

2012 WASHINGTON

Total boat registrations in Washington declined 1.6% in 2012 compared to 2011. Nationally, Washington ranked No. 20 in registrations, down one position from the previous year.

3,407 new model year powerboats were sold and registered in Washington, indicating that 7,238 powerboats (3.3%) registered in 2011 were removed from the registration roll in 2012. Washington does not register either inboard boats or personal watercraft as separate categories. NMMA suspects, and the Washington State Department of Licensing corroborates that 30,000 units registered in 2012 were misclassified as fiberglass sterndrive boats 26'—<40' should have been 16'—<26'.

Washington requires state registration of USCG documented recreational vessels.
